EXPERT DIAGNOSIS OF THE RAVAGING FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

In view of the recent outbreak of foot and mouth disease in the Mississippi Valley, the most extensive as yet in the United States, an account, taken from the Journal of the American Medical Association, of the principal features of the disease may be of interest. It is an acute, highly infectious disease, which occurs chiefly in cattle, sheep, goats and swine, though other animals such as the horse and dog, as well as certain wild animals are attacked also, and it may affect human beings. In animals it is characterized especially by an eruption in the mouth and on the feet, in some species more in the mouth, in others more on the feet. In cattle the incubation period averages from three to five days, whereupon a moderate fever with loss of appetite and other general symptoms sets in. In two or three days small blisters appear on the lining of the mouth, and now the fever usually subsides. At the same time one or more feet may show tenderness and swelling of the skin, soon blisters form here also, and the animal goes lame. In the mouth the blisters may reach half an inch or more in diameter, but usually they are smaller; the contents, at first clear, become turbid, and as the covering bursts, small painful raw spots are produced which either heal quite promptly or turn into ulcers that heal more slowly. Usually the milk is altered and reduced in quantity; blisters and ulcers may form on the udder. There is marked loss of weight, as the animals do not eat because of the pain. In this, the ordinary form, in which the death rate is very small, except among the young, the symptoms fade away in from ten to twenty days or so, except when local infections delay recovery, but there are also severe forms with extensive infection which frequently end in sudden death. In such severe cases ulcers are found in the stomach and intestines. In sheep and swine, lesions of the feet predominate.

The cause of the disease is present in the contents of the vesicles, the discharges from the ulcers, the saliva, the milk, the urine and feces, but as a rule not after the tenth day. It is stated that animals having had the disease may carry the virus for months. Any susceptible species may infect any other susceptible species. Infection occurs not only through direct contact, but also indirectly, as the virus retains its virulence for some little time, at least outside the body. Contamination of fodder, of stalls of feeding and drinking troughs, of milk and milk products and of the hands and clothes of drovers serves to spread the disease, which often travels over wide stretches of country with remarkable rapidity, as shown by the present outbreak. As from 25 to 50 per cent. of the cattle exposed to infection may become sick there results great loss from fall in the production of milk, from reduction of vitality and fecundity and from deaths as well on account of the measures adopted to stamp out the disease.

The immunity produced by an attack seems to be feeble, as animals are said to suffer sometimes more than one attack within a short time. So far no practical method of protective inoculation has been developed.

Our knowledge of the cause of foot and mouth disease is limited to the fact that it concerns a filterable virus, as yet invisible and incultivable. It was in 1897 that Löffler and Prosch made their classical experiment, showing that the disease is caused by a living virus that passes filters which do not permit bacteria to go through, an experiment that has served as a model for all the subsequent work on the many other forms of filterable virus recognized since then. Foot and mouth virus may remain active for months if kept cool and moist, but is destroyed rapidly by drying, by heat at 60 C. (140 F.) and above, by formaldehyde and by carbolic acid. The wide range of virulence of this virus among animal species has been indicated and as stated, the disease may affect human beings, especially children, being transmitted by milk from diseased cows (experimentally verified) and by butter and cheese made from such milk as well as through wounds and in other ways. While the course usually is favorable, an epidemic described by Siegel had a mortality of 8 per cent. The manifestations of fever, digestive disturbance and eruptions on the lips and sometimes on the skin. Where there is danger of contamination of the milk with the foot and mouth virus, thorough pasteurization of all milk and milk products is doubly indicated.

And, if prohibition puts the saloons out of business, how is the Great American Indoor Sport of knocking out Jack Johnson, putting the Federal League out of business and bringing a pennant to Cincinnati going to continue?

Master Commissioner's Sale

MASON CIRCUIT COURT.
Elbert Trisler et al., plaintiffs, vs. Bettie Trisler et al., defendants.
Judgment and order of sale.

In obedience to a judgment and order of sale in the above-styled action, I will, as Master Commissioner, on

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 21ST,

1914, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., proceed, at Court House door, in Maysville, Kentucky, to sell, at public outcry and to the highest and best bidder in cash, the following described four (4) tracts of real estate, in order that the judgment debt of the Union Trust & Savings Company against Tract No. 1 of said real estate (amounting to $300.00, together with six (6) per cent. interest thereon from February 9th, 1914, and its costs herein expended), may be satisfied; that the estate of J. B. Trisler may be settled; that all costs of this action may be paid; that the defendant, Bettie Trisler, widow of J. B. Trisler, deceased, may be paid her dower in money, and that the net proceeds from the sale of the said four (4) tracts of real estate may be divided equally among the heirs-at-law of the said J. B. Trisler.

Said four (4) tracts of real estate are described, and, for convenience, designated as follows, to-wit:

Tract No. 1—That certain lot of ground near Maysville, Ky., adjoining the Sixth Ward, in Mason County, and numbered on the Plat of Culbertson, recorded in D. B. 92, page 564 as lot No. 60; same is on the Northeast corner of Pollard and Wood streets, being the same property conveyed to J. B. Trisler and Bettie Trisler by Ethel Watkins by deed dated February 8, 1910, and recorded in D. B. 112, page 328, Mason County Court Clerk's office. There is a dwelling upon said lot.

Tract No. 2—Lots Nos. 74 and 75 fronting 64 feet on Buckner street and extending back between parallel lines 120 feet to an alley, as shown on the map of Eastland Addition to Maysville, Ky., as mapped by Wilkins & Co., civil engineers for Bowman Realty Co., and which map is recorded in D. B. 113, page 1, Mason County Court Clerk's office; being the same property conveyed by the Bowman Realty Co. to Joseph Trisler and Bettie Trisler by deed dated April 21, 1910, and recorded in D. B. 115, page 148, Mason County Court Clerk's office.

Tract No. 3—Lots Nos. 58, 59 and 60, as shown upon the map of Eastland Addition to Maysville, Ky., as mapped by Wilkins & Co., civil engineers for Bowman Realty Co., and which map is recorded in D. B. 113, page 1, Mason County Court Clerk's office; being the same property conveyed by the Bowman Realty Co. to J. B. Trisler by deed dated 11th day of July, 1911, and recorded in D. B. 115, page 145, Mason County Court Clerk's office.

Tract No. 4—That certain lot of ground lying and being in Mason County, Kentucky, and known as lot No. 76, on the plat of Eastland Addition to the city of Maysville, Ky.; said map being recorded in D. B. 113, page 1, Mason County Court Clerk's office. Said lot fronts 32 feet on the west side of Buckner street and extends westwardly the same width, parallel with Brooks street, a distance of 120 feet to an alley; being the same property conveyed by Charles M. White and wife to J. B. Trisler by deed dated the 28th day of June, 1911, and recorded in D. B. 115, page 147, Mason County Court Clerk's office.

TERMS OF SALE—Tract No. 1 will be sold upon a credit of six (6) and twelve (12) months, in payments of equal amounts. Tract No. 2 will be sold upon a credit of six (6) months. The two (2) lots in this tract will be offered separately, and then the tract will be offered as a whole, and the sale of this tract will be finally made in whichever of these two manners produces the greater sum. Tract No. 3 will be sold upon a credit of six (6) months. The three (3) lots in this tract will be offered separately, and then the tract will be offered as a whole, and the sale of this tract will be finally made in whichever of these two manners produces the greater sum. Tract No. 4 will be sold upon a credit of six (6) months. All purchasers at this sale will be required to execute bonds for the sale price of the property purchased in each separate instance, payable to me as Master Commissioner, and bearing six (6) per cent. interest thereon from the day of sale. A lien will also be retained upon each separate parcel of the property so sold, in order to secure the payment of the purchase price thereof.

A LITTLE BELGIUM SCENE.

Recently there has been presented to the mind many harrowing pictures of devastated Belgium. In fact, so numerous have these pictures been, and so sickening have been the details, that the mind sometimes hesitates to think of Belgium at all turning with horror from the whole spectacle. However, here is another picture of the little kingdom whose rulers are exiles from their land, along with a million or more of their subjects, and whose inhabitants that remain to the number of several million are undergoing great agony and are in danger of immediate starvation. This picture is by an American correspondent and it depicts a scene between Knoeke and Bruges a few hours before the invaders had taken the latter town.

This correspondent says that he was carried through a flat country "submerged in an excess of agricultural care to a process more nearly approaching manuring than mere cultivation; every inch of the whole countryside had been trimmed and rolled and watered and tended until there seemed no spot where a wild flower even would dare to show its head; picturesque villages, with hospitable mottoes over every second door concerning food and drink, came at frequent intervals; and farm houses of excessive neatness, with cow stable and residence in one, dotted the intervening distances."

A beautiful picture even if brief, and it gives us a very illuminating idea of the simple but industrious folk who digged and delved, wasted nothing, utilized everything and made the earth not only blossom as the rose, but a thing of beauty and a poem of nature. Then, in a few short hours came the flood tide of the refugees pouring out of the country before the advance of the legions of the Kaiser, and a little later yet that more realistic flood of living waters, after the dikes had been opened and then the sea swallowed up the "flat lands," the flower pots, the garden beds, villages and farmhouses with the little cowstables annexed.

But we can not get away from that Belgium thrift in comparison with our own neglect. These Belgium inhabitants were artists as well as workers. They performed their agricultural labors with a process more like manuring than mere cultivation. The villages and farmhouses were of "exquisite neatness." Picture in the mind, and it can very easily be done, the average American village and small town, and how many of them which the reader has seen will answer to the description that they have presented a picture of "excessive neatness." Apply the same rule to the average American farmhouse.

The fault with us has been partly that we try to cover too much ground and merely skim over space. We neither cultivate nor do we embellish. The Belgians can evidently do both at the same time. Of course there are some very well to do, with money to spend, who can, and do have picturesque surroundings in the town and in the country, but the rule is not general. Here is a lesson for us all. More work on less ground will not only bring better results, but it will be economy of effort at the same time that the remuneration and the satisfaction have been increased.

So, while we give to the Belgians out of our fuller ability, may we not in return borrow from them some ideas that will be of value not only in the way of making the earth yield of her fruits more abundantly, but also on lines of the aesthetic?
